

International anti-corruption summer school for students and young people

Eastern Europe

Introduction

The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and the International Anti-Corruption Academy (IACA) are joining forces to organize the first international anti-corruption summer school for students and young people from Eastern Europe. The summer school will be held online via IACA training platform from 9 to 15 May 2022.

The summer school will build ethical skills and mindsets in students and young individuals and will raise awareness among them of the values and principles of integrity, ethics and anti-corruption. The summer school's programme is designed for young passionate individuals that want to become ethical agents of change in their community and will provide them with knowledge on how to resist and prevent corruption. With this programme the participants will understand what corruption is and what are its harmful impacts on the society.

Who can participate?

The summer school is open to students and young people of age between 18 and 29 from Albania, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Georgia, Moldova, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Romania, and Serbia. Participants will be selected based on their language skills (proficiency of written and spoken English), educational background and personal interest in the topic.

How to apply?

Students and young people from the aforementioned countries can apply to the summer school through IACA website here. The applications deadline is 25 April 2022.

Participation in the summer school is free of charge.

Programme

The summer school will be delivered in an interactive manner and will include seven substantive online sessions. Each session will be 3-hours long and will be delivered by an internationally renowned professor or practitioner. The lecturers will draw on their knowledge and experience in the field of anti-corruption to enrich the classes with practical examples and provide a unique insight of the sessions' topics. The draft programme of the summer school is available here.

Upon completion of the summer school, participants will be rewarded with a Certificate of Attendance of the programme from UNODC and IACA.

The summer school will be conducted in English.
